19th Sunday in Ordinary Time— Stewardship Journey

“Get up and eat, or the journey will be too much for you.” 1st Kings 19: 7b

Jesus knew that the Stewardship journey would be difficult, so He gave us the nourishment of the Eucharist. When we take time to join our sacrifices with the sacrifice of the Mass, we find the strength to give and joy in our giving.

Catholic Funerals: What the Church Teaches About Cremation

Hope in Christ teaches us to speak openly about death, to resist a culture of the denial of death. As death may come unexpectedly, it is important that families think and talk about funerals beforehand. Even when death occurs after a long illness, it comes as a shock. Grieving families should not have to make important decisions in a hurry.

These days, one of those decisions is whether the deceased body is to be buried intact (“corporeal burial”) or cremated. This decision leads necessarily to others. Faithful Catholics will want such decisions to be informed by the Faith they profess and by the centuries-long experience of the Church.

Does the Church allow cremation? “While the Church continues to hold a preference for corporeal burial, cremation has become part of Catholic practice in the United States and around the world” (Website of the U. S. Conference of Catholic Bishops).

Is this a change in the Church teaching? Yes, for centuries the Catholic Church (with almost all other Christian communions) forbade cremation, because it was associated with pagan religious practice and beliefs about the body—for example that the body is but a kind of “shell” or even a “prison” for the soul. Only very recently (1983), was the Code of Canon Law changed to read: “The Church earnestly recommends that the pious custom of burying the bodies of the dead be observed; it does not, however, forbid cremation unless it has been chosen for reasons which are contrary to Christian teaching” (C.C.C. 1176). The Bishops have explained that the change was influenced by “sensitivity to economic, geographic, ecological, or family factors” that may make cremation the only reasonable choice (USCCB website).

Why, then, does the Church still “earnestly recommend” corporeal burial over cremation? “The Church’s reverent care of the body grows out of reverence for the person whom the Church now commends to the care of God. This is the body once washed in baptism, anointed with the oil of salvation, and fed with the bread of life. . . . The human body is so inextricably associated with the human person that it is hard to think of a human person apart from his or her body” (CCB website, italics added). This explanation reflects deep reflection on Scriptural teaching about the creation and redemption of the body, about our bodily participation in our final redemption (Romans 8:23; Apostles Creed). The point is that human dignity demands that the body is no “thing” to be disposed of. It is, rather, to be honored and lovingly “laid to rest”.

If cremation is chosen, what guidance does the church give us concerning the funeral or about how the remains are to be treated? (1) Without exception, no body is to be cremated without being accompanied by the prayers of the Church. (2) Just so, unless circumstances make it impossible, the intact body is to be present at the funeral mass. The cremation takes place after the funeral mass, following the committal. (3) If this is simply impossible (as it may be, for example in the case of death in a foreign county far from home) the cremated remains are to be present at the funeral. (4) Cremated remains are never to be spread on the ground, thrown to the wind, stored away in a closet, or rest for years on the mantle. They are to be placed in a suitable urn and buried in a marked grave or placed in a mausoleum space.

In the committal of the body to the elements—the final act of the Funeral Rite—the priest recalls the words of St. Paul: Our true citizenship is in heaven, and from heaven we await a savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. He will change our lowly body to be conformed to his glorious body, by the power which enables him to subject all things to himself (Philippians 3:20-21). The bodies of the blessed dead belong, not to us, but to Christ himself. It is this joyful mystery that determines the way Catholic Christians bury their dead.

Bishop-elect Robert Barron: Living as the Image of God: Created for Joy and Love

Session: Keynote Session A

English with French, Italian,

Spanish, Vietnamese and American Sign

Language simultaneously interpreted

Tuesday, September 22nd Time: 2:30 pm – 3:30 pm

This talk will be an exploration of the extravagant biblical claim that human beings have been made in the image and likeness of God. Our likeness to God is revealed in our intelligence, our hunger for the good, our creativity, our freedom, and, above all, in our capacity for relationship. In living for the other, in giving ourselves away in love, we most resemble God, who is love.

Bishop-elect Robert Barron is founder of Word on Fire Catholic Ministries, rector of Mundelein Seminary, and host of Catholicism, a groundbreaking, award-winning documentary about the Catholic faith. His website, WordOnFire.org, has reached over 3.8 million people, and his weekly YouTube videos have been viewed over 9 million times.

NINETEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME, AUGUST 9, 2015

Small Christian Community Faith Sharing

Please note that we put the following week's Gospel passage in this space so you can prepare all week for Proclamation of the Gospel the following Sunday. Faith Sharing helps ordinary people connect their faith with everyday life experiences.

Excerpt from the Gospel for the Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time, August 16, 2015 - John 6:51-58

Jesus said to the crowds: "I am the living bread that came down from heaven; whoever eats this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world." The Jews quarreled among themselves, saying, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?" Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you do not have life within you. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him on the last day. For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink."

Commentary:

The sublime simplicity and beauty of this gospel text reminds us that Jesus takes the ordinary human act of eating and shows us that this familiar action is the very way we can come to eternal life. The act - eating - is the same; the food differs. The food Jesus offers is from heaven and that upon which we feast is no less than Jesus himself. Jesus is the source of our life. At the same time we can never forget that our communion with Jesus nourishes us to share that life with others. In this way, we ourselves become bread for the life of others. Our intimacy with Jesus calls us to the same intimacy with others. This kind of intimacy does not end but continues to everlasting life.

Questions for Reflection and Sharing:

1. What is God saying to me in this Gospel passage?
2. What word or phrase in this Gospel speaks to me?
3. What word or phrase in the Reflection resonates with me?

Pro-Life Corner: We see documentaries about Adolf Hitler's hideous so-called 'medical' experiments on human beings, but abortionists today are helping to do the same thing by killing babies and selling the body parts to pharmaceutical companies and universities for so-called 'medical' experiments. As a nation, we are no better than Hitler because we are still allowing abortion to continue.

Padre Pio

Miracle Man

The Priest Who Bore The Wounds Of Christ

Padre Pio: Miracle Man is a dramatic film on the life of the famous stigmatic monk and saint. This major feature film drama captures the Capuchin friar's intense faith and devotion and deep spiritual concern for others, and his great compassion for the sick and suffering. It dramatizes the frequent attacks of the Devil on him, and the persecution he suffered at the hands of people, including those in the Church. The many miracles that he performed are also highlighted, as well as his deep humility, charity and sense of humor.

All are welcome.

Please bring snacks to share

Each journey of faith begins with an invitation, a call from beyond ourselves, a call from God. Salvation history begins when God called Abraham, our Father in faith. It was a call to leave his home and family and go to an unknown, unspecified country. Abraham did not ask where, why, how or for how long. He just went. He started out on a journey of faith.

And so it was when Jesus saw Peter and his brother Andrew casting a net into the sea, and simply said, "Come follow me." They did not ask where, why, how or for how long. They just went. They started out on a journey of faith.
